Having been asked to produce Ancients in 1/300th a fair bit over the years we have finally decided to do an Ancient range but to go up to 10mm. Myriad reasons for this but mainly its the extra size means we can depict the armour and dress of the period with greater detail and variations. It also has the benefit of making the weapons more robust. The first offering is Gaul's to be followed by Caesarian Roman. Have various thought about what we do after the Romans so any suggestions welcome. Plans at the moment are to do a range for the Norman conquest of southern Italy.

Uniform descriptions: When 'tunic' is used this refers to the standard style of the period with cut away lapels and turnbacks. 'Rifle tunic' is pretty obvious. 'Hat' refers to the standard bicorne/tricorne style of the period, 'round hat' refers to the 'Pilgrim fathers' style of soft brimmed hat, 'Mitre' grenadier caps are the standard tall fronted type of the period. 'Cap' refers to the large number of types of helmets. The Militia types are dressed in a wide variation of the typical civilian style of the period.
